Senate Investigation Called 'War Dance'

Flanders Says No Light Shed Up to Present

He Believes Inquiry Of Monetary Policy Will Yet Prove Good

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.) said today the Senate Finance Committee's big monetary investigation so far appears to be a "war dance" and a "prolonged needling" of Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey.

"I think no real light has been shed on our subject to date," Flanders told a reporter.

"But I think we can get down to some pertinent questions when the war dance ceases."

The New Englander named no names, but so far all the questions directed at Humphrey have come from the Democratic side.

When the committee recessed yesterday after its first week of hearings, only two of its 15 members had had a chance to pose questions.

Sen. Kerr D-Okla., one of the Senate's most adept cross-examiners, was firing the questions at quitting time yesterday. Kerr retains that role when the hearings resume Tuesday; he gave Humphrey a number of problems on which to do research over the weekend.

Indications are that the secretary, soon to leave the Eisenhower administration after four and a half years as one of its strong men, may be on the witness stand two more weeks.

The committee is investigating the nation's financial condition. Chairman Byrd D-Va. who led off the questioning, centered most of his attention on inflation, which has started up again in the past year, and the steady climb in federal spending of the past three years.

Other Democrats have been much more concerned over the rise in interest rates which they say reflects "the administration's tight money policy."

Flanders said one of the "basic questions" he wanted to explore was the relationship between prosperity and inflation.

"I have the feeling that it is almost impossible to avoid inflation when times are really prosperous," he commented.

Flanders said he believed Humphrey led off the hearings last Tuesday with "an excellent statement."

Humphrey asserted that Eisenhower administration policies and brought the nation to "unparalleled prosperity." He also vigorously defended credit restraints and other measures he said were necessary to hold back inflation.

However, the secretary, after the questioning started, had to concede at least one major error in his statement and to acknowledge some disappointments along the way.

His statement said flatly that the Eisenhower administration had reduced the federal debt, but he retreated from this after Byrd insisted the debt actually had risen almost nine billion dollars.

Clinton Girl Dies In Auto Wreck On Highway 13

CLINTON, Mo. June 22 (AP)—A 17-year-old Clinton girl was killed today in an automobile accident on State Highway 13, north of Clinton. The victim was Leone Dietz, a passenger in the car of Charles Eugene Cloe, 23, also of Clinton. The Highway Patrol said his car went out of control, left the pavement and overturned several times. Cloe suffered cuts, bruises and shock but was released from the hospital after treatment.

Judge to Speak

DAR Chapter to Pay Tribute to Soldier

Members of Osage Chapter DAR plan to pay tribute to a Revolutionary soldier, Robert Beaty, who died in Pettis County 120 years ago this June. A plaque will be placed on the grave marker at Providence Baptist Church cemetery northeast of Smithton on Highway 135 Sunday afternoon, June 30, at 3 o'clock.

Robert Beaty

Mrs. L. H. Hodges, chapter regent and her committee have planned a service which will include an address by Judge Dimmitt Hoffman, a sketch of Robert Beaty's life and an appropriate color guard ceremony by one of the local war service groups.

Robert Beaty's son, Napoleon, was one of Pettis County's earliest businessmen. He and a relative of his wife, W. L. White, had a store near the Providence Church site.

Napoleon and his wife, Cornelia F. Beaty, were the parents of five daughters and two sons. The youngest daughter, Gloria, was the wife of Adam Ittel, a banker in Sedalia in the 1880's. Col. David Walker Wear of Binghamton, N.Y., is the son of Laura Beaty. His boyhood was spent in Boonville.

Descendants of Sally Beaty who married Samuel Tanner are living in Alabama and Texas. Cornelia Beaty was the wife of William Young. A descendant of the marriage of Mary Ann Beaty, who married John C. Cobb, is Mrs. Fred L. Jackson of Mexico, Mo. Robert Beaty married Mary Palmer. William N. Beaty probably married in California, as he was living there at the time of his mother's death in 1890.

This is the second Pettis County grave of a Revolutionary soldier to be marked by the Osage Chapter DAR. The other soldier was Benjamin Mason whose grave is in the old Hickory Point cemetery near Green Ridge. The two stone markers at the entrance of Memorial Drive at Crown Hill Cemetery in Sedalia were placed in tribute to Capt. George Cathey and Lt. Adam Calhoun Scott, two Revolutionary War soldiers who died in Pettis County. Their place of burial is unknown.

Osage Chapter DAR extends an invitation to the public to attend these services.

Youth Held in Deaths Gets Brain Wave Test

KANSAS CITY, June 22 (AP)—Brain wave tests were made today on Daniel Woolridge, 14-year-old St. Joseph, Mo., youth held in the slaying of his father, mother, brother and sister.

The recording was made here in the office of a physician and will be sent to Dr. George F. Foreman, St. Joseph, who has been supervising psychiatric tests on the youth.

Airliner Crash Fatal to Three

CLARKSBURG, Md., June 22 (AP)—A twin-engine airliner fell out of the skies today, killing the three men aboard, splattering oil on a house 15 feet away and almost hitting a man who dodged and ran "in crazy circles."

It also terrified a 14-year-old girl next door, who ran home screaming: "Mother, a plane is after me."

The plane was a DC3 of Capital Airlines, which was about three-fourths through a training cruise it had started from Washington, D. C., 30 miles to the south.

Those killed, all pilots and all employees of the airline, were identified by Dr. Frank J. Broschart, Montgomery County coroner, as: Carl Ross Burke, 32, Fairfax, Va.

Robert Kenneth Thomas, 30, Berwyn, Ill.

Henry Andy Podgurski, 37, Manors, Pa.

Lightning Blows Fuse, Residences Lose Power

Residences in the area between Quincy and Missouri and between Third and Main were without power in the early hours of Saturday when lightning blew a fuse at Third and Grand.

The lightning actually struck an insulator about a third of a block north on Grand from Main, causing a conductor to flop over on another and producing a short circuit that blew the fuse at Third and Grand.

The Missouri Public Service Co. received the report of the damage at 2:15 a.m. and repairs were completed at 5 a.m.

4 Soldiers Are Killed At Ft. Sill

Mortar Shell Explodes Amid Infantry Unit

FT. SILL, Okla., June 22 (AP)—Four soldiers were killed and 13 were injured, five seriously today when a high explosive mortar shell landed among them during a public demonstration.

Capt. Robert E. Kren, public information officer at the world's largest artillery training center, said that none of the spectators was injured by the blast which occurred about one mile from where they were standing.

One of the dead was identified by the army as Sgt. Alonzo Cartledge, Ft. Sill. Identification of the other victims was being withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Kren said an Army board under Col. O. L. Tobiasen has been named to investigate the accident.

He said the mortar shell, fired from a weapon which also can be used to fire chemical shells, was believed to have been a "short round," one which falls short of its intended target.

It fell among members of Company B, 52nd Infantry Battalion, as they moved toward their objective of "Adams Hill" on the east artillery range.

Approximately 175 soldiers from Company B were involved in the ground part of the simulated attack on a hill position. They were supported by 537th Field Artillery Battalion, 548th Field Artillery Battalion, 6th Armored Field Artillery Battalion, 88th Searchlight Battery and an Army Aviation Training Command unit.

The supporting units were laying down a barrage of shells ahead of the advancing infantry unit when the explosion occurred.

Dazed survivors of the explosion were unable to be questioned but one said: "We were going up the hill and suddenly there was an explosion. I don't remember what happened then."

Helicopters taking part in the exercise rushed the dead and injured to the base hospital, landing (Please turn to page 4, column 2)

MPS Will Make Changes This Week in Power

The Missouri Public Service Co. has issued a reminder that certain sections of the city will be without power Monday and Tuesday to permit the company to increase the voltage in those sections. This will serve to meet the growing use of electric power by the firm's customers.

The lines will be converted one at a time, and the lack of power in any one section will not exceed 30 minutes. If electrical service is off more than 30 minutes, customers are asked to notify the company's office.

Following are the approximate areas to be effected and the time of the day the work is planned for each area:

Monday morning:

Area between Main and Third from Prospect East to Missouri; area between Third and Fourth from Carr to Monticau; area between Fourth and Seventh from Park East to Kentucky.

Monday afternoon:

Area between Third and Seventh between Beacon and Carr. Also area between Fourth and Seventh from Carr to Park. Also area between Seventh and Broadway from Park to Grand.

Area between Seventh and Broadway, Grand to Osage.

Area between Broadway and Tenth from Beacon to Grand.

Area between Broadway and 11th from Grand to Osage.

Tuesday morning:

Area between Tenth and 20th from Warren to Grand.

Tuesday afternoon:

Area between 11th and 23rd from Grand to Lamine.

The work is planned to be done between the hours of 8 a.m. to noon and between 1 and 5 p.m.

In Face of Weapons Shipment

North Korean Reds Propose New Talk on Nation's Future

SEOUL, June 22 (AP)—Communists North Korea, confronted by the fact that new American weapons will be moving soon to South Korea, proposed today to dicker again over the future of the divided nation.

Radio Pyongyang broadcast a call by North Korea's Premier Kim Il Sung for an immediate conference of all nations "concerned for the peaceful solution of the Korean question."

"The unification of Korea should be left to the Koreans themselves by withdrawing all foreign troops from Korea instead of introducing new weapons into South Korea," he declared at a reception in Pyongyang for a Soviet delegation headed by Ambassador A. M. Puzanov.

At the same time the U. N. Command's decision to disregard a prohibition in the armistice agreement of July 27, 1953, and start arming its troops with modern weapons was denounced by the North Korean Communist party newspaper Rodong Shinmoon.

The U. N. Command had been charging the Communists with violating that prohibition, and building up their forces with the aid of Red China, almost since the armistice was signed.

A top Allied source in Seoul said U. N. forces in Korea will receive their first new fighting equipment in four years Monday with delivery of a flight of F100 fighters, all-weather craft which fly faster than sound.

He announced an unspecified number will land at the U. S. air base at Osan, about 65 miles south of the Red border, and perhaps a force of light bombers also will make the trip. Few F100s have been based in the Far East. The source did not specify where they would come from.

Confirmation of the timing of their arrival for Monday was lacking at headquarters of the U. S. Far East air force in Tokyo. A spokesman there said the Air Force was ready to move as soon as orders were issued, but "so far we have received no such word."

The first additions for ground troops in Korea will be a shipment of new rifles, bazookas and other infantry equipment for U. S. American divisions here. There was no word, however, on when the weapons will arrive.

Indications here are that it has not yet been decided whether the coming weapons will include atomic missiles and rockets.

Marshall Man Drowns When Boat Capsizes

Wife Saved by Life Jacket in Accident On Lake of Ozarks

The second drowning in eight days on the Mill Creek arm of Lake of the Ozarks occurred about 1:20 Saturday afternoon when Charles Leroy Nichols, 23, of Marshall, was overturned from his motorboat by waves from a larger boat which passed near him.

Nichols was accompanied by his wife, Rosemary, who was also dumped from the boat but was kept afloat by her life jacket until help arrived.

The only witness to the accident was Richard Schell of Schell Construction Co., Jefferson City, who sped his boat to the scene but was too late.

Schell quickly pulled Mrs. Nichols aboard and went to the Red Roof Resort nearby to summon help in recovering the body. Resort owner Orrie Goosey notified Morgan County Sheriff J. T. Hull, Versailles, and Coroner Gene Bartram, Versailles, who went to make the investigation.

Combined dragging efforts of Sheriff Hull, Coroner Bartram, Versailles fireman Jess Nobles, and Coast Guard members, recovered the body about 4:10 p. m.

The accident took place about a half mile from Red Roof, where the Nichols' were vacationing.

According to the coroner, Mrs. Nichols said her husband was a non-swimmer and that she had played with him to wear his life jacket a short time before they were overturned. She said he refused to wear the jacket and kept it beside him in the boat.

Coroner Bartram ruled it an accidental drowning and said there would be no inquest.

The resort is located about 10 miles southwest of Gravois Mills on lake road 13. Mr. Nichols is survived by his wife and a three-year-old daughter; and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Nichols, Marshall.

The body was taken to the Kidwell Funeral Home in Versailles and was to be transferred to the Campbell-Lewis Funeral Home in Marshall Saturday evening. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Missouri Department Of VFW Auxiliary Picks New President

COLUMBIA, June 22 (AP)—Respecting a long-time tradition, the Missouri Department of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary today advanced its senior vice president to the office of president.

Mrs. James Settle of Jefferson City, who had been senior vice president for a year, was elected to succeed Mrs. Viola Keefe of Mexico, Mo., the retiring president.

The election session was held during the auxiliary's state encampment being held here in conjunction with the V. F. W.'s annual state encampment.

Advanced to the office of senior vice president was Mrs. Bernice Cavellero of St. Louis, who had been junior vice president.

Other officers elected today are: Junior vice president, Mrs. Francis Donahue of Joplin; secretary, Mrs. Harry Meador of Fredericktown; treasurer, Mrs. Walter Robinson of Kansas City; chaplain, Mrs. Charles Crawford of Kansas City; guard, Mrs. Theresa Martin of Independence; and conductress, Mrs. Helen Diebling, of St. Louis.

Missouri Senators Vote for Dam Project

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sens. Jennings and Symington of Missouri voted for and Sens. Carlson and Schoepel of Kansas against the bill passed by the Senate Friday authorizing a high federal dam at Hells Canyon. The measure goes to the House.

Filibuster Will Do It

Senator Ives Thinks Civil Rights Bill Certain to Lose

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—Sen. Ives R-N.Y., a supporter of the administration's civil rights bill, said today he thinks it is doomed by an expected Southern filibuster.

Although Southern foes of the legislation sometimes shy away from using the word filibuster, Sen. Ellender D-La showed no such delicacy in pledging an all-out fight against its passage.

He said that any motion to take up the measure, placed on the Senate's calendar two days by a parliamentary short cut, "will bring forth prolonged debate—to be blunt, a filibuster."

The bill, already passed by the House, was placed on the Senate calendar by a 45-39 vote in an unusual maneuver sparked by Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California. Thus the bill bypassed the Senate Judiciary Committee, where a companion measure has been bottled up since mid-March.

However, Senate leaders have entered into an agreement not to try to call the bill up for debate before July 8.

Ives' remarks were prepared for broadcast over 13 New York TV stations. It was an interview transcribed prior to the senate vote placing the measure on the calendar.

However, he said "I don't believe we are going to be able to get it passed if we succeed in getting it on the calendar."

Under the free debate permitted in the Senate, he said, "our Southern friends could start a filibuster today and keep filibustering right on through Dec. 31st and prevent any action on anything here if they wanted to do it."

The only way a filibuster can be broken in the Senate, other than by sheer physical exhaustion, is to secure the votes of 64 senators, or two thirds of the entire membership.

Although Ives' statements clearly indicated he didn't think this could be done, Senator Clifford Case R-N.J., another strong supporter of the legislation, said "I now believe we can get the 64 votes necessary to shut off the filibusters."

"I am confident this Congress will enact a meaningful civil rights bill, the first since the Civil War era," he said in a statement.

"We can see the end of the road even though the struggle for the right-to-vote bill will be long."

The legislation is designed to protect voting and other civil rights, primarily through empowering the attorney general to seek Federal Court injunctions against violations.

Deramus Also Heads Texas MKT Company

DALLAS (AP)—William N. Deramus III was elected president of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad Co. of Texas at the annual meeting of the stockholders and directors here Friday.

He succeeds Donald V. Fraser as head of the Katy's Texas operations.

Deramus was named president of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Co., parent company of the Texas firm, last January. At that time Fraser became chairman of the board.

Steinbeck, who is here on a private visit, praised Stevenson as "the most intelligent presidential candidate we have had for a long time."

Benny Hooper Doctor Bill Tossed Away

Medical Committee Says Doctor Thought Parents Had Money

BAY SHORE, N. Y., June 22 (AP)—Young Benny Hooper's widely assailed $1,500 doctor bill was tossed away today by a medical committee.

The committee ruled, with Benny's physician agreeing, that the boy's parents didn't have to pay the bill because they are financially unable to do so.

Dr. Joseph H. Kris, veteran Long Island doctor and specialist in anesthesiology, had been bitterly attacked by private citizens, high medical officials and even U. S. senators for seeking the $1,500 fee. He contended it was a fair amount, if the parents were able to pay.

But the storm of controversy ended with the physician and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hooper Sr. chatting happily following the committee ruling.

Together they decided that any money contributions already sent by well-wishers, if earmarked for Benny's medical expenses, would be turned over to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Dr. Kris played a leading role in 7-year-old Benny's celebrated rescue from a narrow 24-foot well shaft at the Hooper home in nearby Manorville five weeks ago.

He spent nearly 24 hours at the scene, supervising the administration of oxygen to Benny through a rubber tube. This was regarded as perhaps the major factor in saving the lad's life, since at times his head was covered with sand.

Afterward, Dr. Kris was in constant attendance upon the boy for a week at a hospital while a spot

Steinbeck Was Writer For Intellectual Adlai

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, June 22 (AP)—Author John Steinbeck said today he acted as a ghost-writer for Democratic candidate Adlai Stevenson during last year's presidential campaign.

In an interview with the newspaper Information, he said Stevenson was actually "a fine writer, but, as such, too intellectual."

"I myself helped him during his campaign last year," he said. "I prepared some of his speeches, not only regarding their political aims, but also with a view of making them more understandable for the masses."

Steinbeck, who is here on a private visit, praised Stevenson as "the most intelligent presidential candidate we have had for a long time."

CLOSE OF VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL—The Vacation Bible School of the First Baptist Church concluded with commencement exercises on Sunday evening, June 16. This was the climax of two weeks' work for 178 pupils and 53 workers, with an average attendance of 203, which was a little above last year and set another record. The school included the ages of 3 through 16. The highlights of the school included increased enrollment in the nursery and intermediate departments. Also an advanced type of work was done with the intermediate age groups — 13 through 16. Besides the usual Bible study, Mission study, character study and handicraft, which were featured in all departments, this older age group took three all day trips—first, to Kansas City to see the Ten Commandments as background for the study of Moses; second, to Jefferson City to visit the State Baptist headquarters and survey the cooperative work with Negroes, especially pertaining to Lincoln University; and third, to Liberty, Mo., to see the Senior Baptist College. Also included in this advanced work were a series of special interest conferences in such fields as grooming, fashions, dating, and floral arrangements. This department was under the direction of Mrs. Bill Thomas, assisted by Mrs. Robert Vedder, Mrs. George Wiarda, Mrs. James Hinkle, and Miss Nona Payne.

The offering of the pupils and faculty went through the co-operative program to all phases of Southern Baptist mission, benevolence, and promotional work, and totaled $84.78.

The superintendents of the other departments in the school were: Nursery 1, Mrs. Robert Reardon; Nursery 2, Mrs. Charles Thompson; Beginner Department, Miss Mary Beth Kesterson; Primary 1, Mrs. Homer Gwinn; Primary 2, Mrs. Doras Herndon; Junior 1, Mrs. Frank Chaney, and Junior 2, Mrs. Stanley Fisher.

Mrs. O. A. Potter was chairman of the refreshment committee, and William Guenther was in charge of transportation. The general officers of the school were — Principal, Bill Thomas; secretary, Miss Ora Stephens; pianist, Miss Janelle Goldsmith. The pastor, Dr. T. W. Croxton, told the character stories in the joint worship service every morning.

Geigers Are Convinced US Is Best

Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence S. Geiger, 1520 West Broadway, have returned home from a six week trip to Europe, with the feeling that they live in the best country in the world and the best state in the union.

They visited France, Switzerland, Germany, Holland, England, and Ireland. They went over on the United States and flew back from the Shannon Air Force Base to Chicago leaving Shannon at 10 p.m. and arriving in Chicago at 7:30 a.m.

The weather, Dr. Geiger said, was good, and one of the highlights of the trip was attending the International Rotary Convention held in Lucerne, Switzerland. Another thing they did that they enjoyed was a boat trip down the Rhine from Wiesbaden to Coblenz. Dr. Geiger had been in Europe while he was in service in World

Answer Roll Call By Naming a Bird

Fifteen members of Lamine 4-H Club answered roll by naming a bird. Five guests and four leaders were also present.

The clothing and garden leaders gave their reports.

The next meeting will be July 12 'at the community center.

War I, and made part of the trip down the Rhine in 1919.

They had a wonderful time, Dr. Geiger said, but the best part of the trip was getting home. Even in the United States, he feels, this is the place to be. Here, he said, there is plenty of room, we are not so crowded with people and we are right in the center so we can go any direction without having to travel so far. The Geigers have done quite a lot of traveling, and have taken interesting trips before, but they still wouldn't trade Sedalia for all the rest of the world.

Engineers Try To Drain Off Full Lakes

They Believe Excess Of Water Perilous If More Rain Falls

DALLAS, June 22.—U. S. Engineers still are trying to drain out of Southwestern lakes they control a potentially dangerous excess of water caught during the April and May floods.

"The stage is set for a worse performance should nature choose to trigger heavy new rainfall," Brig. Gen. L. E. Seeman, Southwestern division chief of the U. S. Engineers, said today.

He reported 15 million acre-feet of excess water—enough to cover Connecticut five feet deep—are impounded in reservoirs operated by the engineers. This water is being released as rapidly as possible.

Seeman said these dams caught 20 million acre feet while limiting damage in nine river basins to $125,500,000 at latest estimate. He credited the same facilities with preventing 142 million dollars in further loss.

An acre foot equals 325,851 gallons.

At the same time, Seeman said the reservoir system authorized by Congress for major streams of the Southwestern flood area—most of Texas and Oklahoma, southeastern Kansas, southern Missouri, Arkansas and Louisiana—could have prevented 56 1/2 millions in damage but construction of works to do this has not been started.

His review showed 27 of 34 reservoirs operated by the Southwestern Division for Flood Control were pressed into service—some only part-finished—after spring downpours began in mid-April. Only the division projects in west Texas, eastern New Mexico and southeastern Colorado have been outside the record flood area.

Three-fourths of the unprecedented 20 million acre-feet of impounded water must be turned loose downstream "as rapidly as practical so as to gain protection from further rains that may very well cause new floods over the presently thoroughly soaked area," Seeman said.

Knob Noster Store Reports Burglary Attempt to Sheriff

An attempted burglary of the Turner Feed Store in Knob Noster by persons who sawed off the hinges of the door of a large safe was reported to the Johnson County sheriff's office Thursday.
The would-be burglars made a very crude and awkward attempt to get into the safe, Sheriff William O. Fortney said, because most persons know that the hinges on a safe door do not hold the door closed, but rather the bolts inside the door.
Entrance was gained through a window on the north side of the building, the sheriff said. Apparently the burglars went away empty handed for their work.

Stewart in Blazing Finish To Edge Blair in Amateur

Wins 1-Up In 39-Hole Golf Duel

Birdies Last
5 Holes, Mark
Set by Blair

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 22 — (P) — Bill Stewart of Springfield today birdied five straight holes, winning the last one with a 34-foot putt, to defeat Jim Tom Blair III of St. Louis for the Missouri Amateur Golf title one up in 39 holes.

The 34-year-old salesman won what is believed to be the longest and lowest scoring championship round in the history of the tournament after being down two holes at the beginning of the 35th hole.

Stewart birdied the 35th and 36th holes while Blair shot par on both. Both men continued the blazing pace with birdies on the 37th and 38th holes.

On the par three 136-yard 39th hole, Stewart's first shot put him 34 feet from the hole, while Blair landed 25 feet away.

Stewart studied his shot for five minutes, addressed the ball and sank the putt. Blair, who is normally a fast golfer, studied his shot for about a minute, then let go. The ball missed the cup by six inches.

Stewart now holds the Missouri title for the 2nd time, having won it in 1953. The 25-year-old Blair won the tournament in 1952 and 1955.

The young Springfield golfer started the second round with a two hole advantage over Blair who finished the morning's golf with a 71. Stewart's morning score was 69.

Blair began burning up the course on the second 18 holes. He shot six birdies on the first 13 holes and finished the regulation 18 holes with a record breaking 66 on the par 72 Hickory Hills golf course. Stewart's medal score was 68.

On the 404-yard 35th hole, Stewart sank an 18-foot putt. Blair two putted the green. On the par four 36th hole, Stewart missed his long hole out and was left with a 2 1/2 putt. He sank it and tied Blair, who parred the hole, driving the match into extra holes.

The loss was a disappointing one for Blair who had shot below par golf on every previous round. His poorest showing was a two under par 3 and 2 victory.

The match was played on Stewart's home course, the same one on which he won his previous title.

Lead to Texan In Flint Golf, Rosburg Skids

FLINT, Mich., June 22 (P)—Little known Bert Weaver, 25, a Texan who has never struck it rich, skipped into a one-stroke lead today after three rounds of the $37,000 Flint Open Golf Tournament. Early leader Bob Rosburg skidded to a sixth place tie.

Weaver, former Louisiana State University golfer who turned pro less than a year ago, shaved three strokes off par with a 68 to go with a pair of 69s in the first two rounds.

This is the first time Weaver has been a leader in a major tournament. Rosburg, leader the first two days, faltered badly. His four stroke margin disappeared on the first six holes of the 6,625-yard Flint Golf Club layout and he was six strokes over par with a 42 on the first nine. He came home with a par 35 and used 77 strokes for the day.

Weaver started today's round tied with three others, four strokes behind Rosburg. He dropped a 25-foot putt for a birdie on the first hole and sank two other putts from more than 40 feet away. Altogether he collected seven birdies and was over par on four holes.

Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., and Paul Hamey of Bolton, Mass., deadlocked for second place with 207, one stroke behind Weaver. Gardner Dickinson Jr. of Panama City, Fla., was third with 208 and defending champion Dow Finsterwald was fourth with 209.

Today's round was played in near 90-degree heat with winds that sometimes hit 22 miles an hour.

Flares Over Muffed Play

Redleg Is Fined $100 For Punch at Writer

CINCINNATI, June 22 (P)—Sports writers usually are classed as "non-belligerents" but even they now are figuring in the rash of 1957 major league baseball fights.

Johnny Temple, fiery 26-year-old Cincinnati Redleg second baseman, swung a punch on Earl Lawson, Cincinnati Times-Star baseball writer, in a clubhouse fight last night and the result was:

A $100 fine levied against Temple by National League President Warren C. Giles and then an apology by Temple to Lawson at a meeting of players with the 33-year-old baseball writer today.

Lawson suffered a bruised and swollen eye.

Giles fined Temple because Lawson was acting as official scorer and, as such, was a representative of the league.

The fight started because Temple objected to Lawson having charged him with an error on a ground ball hit to him by Hank Foiles in last night's Redleg-Pittsburgh Pirate game.

Lawson said that when he went to the clubhouse after last night's game, Temple "unleashed a blistering barrage of profanity" because of the call of the play and that the Redleg infielder hit him after Lawson said, "Why don't you grow up?"

Ed O'Neil of the Dayton Daily News, who saw the incident, told much the same story today except that he said Temple knocked Lawson to the floor and "then tried to jump on Lawson but teammates restrained him and kept Lawson from swinging back."

Lawson said, "The only blows I landed were on the guys trying to break it up."

Temple claimed he only "pushed" Lawson and he said it was "just a flareup of temper on my part."

Temple's apology came at a players' meeting called by first baseman Ted Kluszewski. It was a closed session and Lawson said Temple "apologized for his behavior." He said Temple addressed his remarks to him and the other players and said he "realized" he had a hot temper and would try to control it.

Lawson said he told the group, "I'm sorry it happened, too."

Anyone Can Play New Attraction Here Is Miniature Golf

A miniature golf course, located at 1511 South Limit, which is, of course, South Highway 65, is attracting big crowds of all ages each day during the hours of 2 p.m. to 12 p.m.

Children find it fun in the afternoon although many grown-ups visit it, too, and find it is a wonderful place to get a good suntan. In the evenings there are people there of all ages, children, teenagers, young married couples, entire families, older people gather there for a few hours of fun. Those who play golf enjoy the game but the nice part about it is you don't have to know how to play golf to play miniature golf. One young woman had never had a golf club in her hand before but she had so much fun the first time she played on the new miniature golf course that she is a steady customer.

Mel's Miniature Golf Course is owned by Melvin Miller, 106 West Second, who plans to make it a real recreational area as he goes along. He expects to have a ping-pong area soon and is already making his plans for other things next year, such as a batting machine.

Miller is from Urbana, Mo., and was employed as an auditor for a retail implement company, traveling a territory which included Sedalia. He liked this town and when he became ill and had to give up that kind of work he decided this was the town he wanted to live in. So, he came here, and began working in the men's clothing department of Montgomery Wards, where he is still employed.

For a long time he has been planning some kind of business and thought he might start a root beer stand. Then he began thinking of something in the recreational line and decided on miniature golf. Mel worked nights building his equipment for his miniature golf course and enlisted the help of Clarence Boeschon who did a great deal of the work. He laid the course out himself, too. The course was made of limestone which when wet hardened like cement but he found he didn't put it on thick enough, it is being kicked up, now, so he is putting on a new surface.

He has a young man, Duane Brodensen, from Ottumwa, who is a student at CMSC during school year, who is running the business for him, but Mel is out there many of the evenings himself.

The area is about 140 by 150 feet which isn't quite as large as Mel would like but it is working out pretty well. He has a big crowd all the time and it really hasn't been very good weather for such a recreation either. He is drawing people from all around Sedalia, too, and has had them from as far away as Iowa. The air base people have seemed to like it very much, and the wife of one of the air base men who is from Pennsylvania said she was so happy that he had started, because they are all over the east.

It is nice clean fun where groups of people of all ages can play, and, of course it may not be as much fun but it is possible for a person to play the game by himself. There is a rate for parties and a Sunday School class from Ionia recently took advantage of the rates and had a party.

It doesn't cost a cent to watch, either, and those who don't want to play are welcome to go out and watch the others.

Mel plans to add a little light-house sometime in the near future as well as a windmill.

NEW YORK, June 22 (P)—Yogi Berra's 13th inning homer gave the New York Yankees a 6-5 victory over the Chicago White Sox today and boosted the world champions into first place in the American League for the first time since May 9. It was the Yanks' ninth straight victory.

Over in the "A" League, Kiwanis was defeated by the Lions. The final score was Lions 19, Kiwanis 2. Newball pitched for the Lions and Thompson was on the mound for Kiwanis. Optimist, with Bain on the hill, defeated Sedalia Ice and Cold Storage, with Sole pitching, by the score of 7 to 2.

In the Friday night games, the Elks "B" lost to Rotary "B" by a score of 8 to 25. Downs pitched for Rotary. At Little League Stadium, under the lights, Adco "B" defeated Jaycees "B" by a score of 14 to 9. Thomas was on the hill for Adco, and Sparks pitched for Jaycees.

Rotary "A" defeated Elks "A" 10 to 2, with Downs hurling and winning for Rotary, and Fletcher charged with the loss for Elks. The Adco "A" team defeated Jaycees by a score of 17 to 2 at Vermont park. Newton pitched for Adco, and Anthes for Jaycees.

The contest for Attendance Queen is progressing very well with all candidates closely packed. Kiwanis is leading by a slim margin.

Wednesday night, June 26, will be "Sedalia Ice and Cold Storage Night." We will also have an added attraction. The Monarch School of Music will play a short concert between the first and second game.

A's Shackled By Fornieles

Red Sox Hurler Quiets K.C. In 2nd Start on 6 Hits, 5-1

BOSTON, June 22—(P)—Mike Fornieles may have ended the Boston Red Sox search for another starting pitcher today by nand-cuffing Kansas City, 5-1, on a six-hitter.

Used chiefly as a relief hurler since he entered the major leagues in 1952 at Washington, Fornieles turned in his second complete game for the Sox.

Billy Martin got to him for a leadoff home run in the sixth inning. Five scattered singles provided the only additional offense the Athletics could mount against the Cuban who mixes a fastball and slider to taste.

Acquired in the recent trade with Baltimore for Billy Goodman, Fornieles lost a tough 2-1 decision at Detroit in the 10th inning in his only other appearance in a Boston uniform.

Mike, who had lost seven in a row, did not allow the A's a walk. In 18 1/3 innings with the Sox he has issued only four passes.

Frank Malzone's two-run homer highlighted a four-run third inning for Boston.

Fornieles opened with a single followed by a Jim Piersall safety. Billy Klaus forced Piersall. Ted Williams singled for a run and Mickey Vernon's sacrifice fly accounted for another. Then Malzone, the sensational rookie third baseman, hammered his third homer into the left field screen.

Boston's first score came in the opening frame when Piersall tripled and crossed the plate on Klaus' sacrifice fly.

Brooks Rally To Jar Birds

Blasts in Ninth Stop Cards By 6-4; Newcombe Still Hex

ST. LOUIS, June 22.—(P)—The six-year hex of Brooklyn's Don Newcombe on the St. Louis Cardinals held fast today as PeeWee Reese and Duke Snider smashed consecutive two-out triples in the ninth for a 6-4 Dodger victory.

This was the 12th straight victory for Newcombe over the Redbirds, who haven't beaten him since Aug. 23, 1951.

The first-place Cardinals have dropped four in a row to the 6-foot 4-inch righthander this season, helping him to a 7-6 record.

Reese and Snider came through to break a 4-4 tie in the ninth against reliever Vinegar Bend Mizell.

Charley Neal opened the inning with a double took third on a sacrifice, then stayed there as Junior Gilliam grounded out.

Then the veteran Dodger captain, who'll be 38 in a month, tripled to center and Snider iced it with his triple off the wall in right center.

Newcombe had left for a pinch

batter in the ninth and Clem Labine took over in the ninth to preserve the victory. He had some trouble as Eddie Kasko and pinch hitter Walker Cooper opened with singles, but he clamped down to get Don Blasingame on a foul and Alvin Dark and Stan Musial on strikes.

The defeat ended a four-game Cardinal winning streak and evened the series at a game apiece.

A three-run third inning homer by Gil Hodges helped the Dodgers to a 4-1 lead after six innings.

Then with two out in the seventh and none on, Newcombe fumbled Kasko's smash and threw wild past first for two errors on the play. Kasko reaching second.

Pinch hitter Joe Cunningham doubled to right, scoring Kasko, and Blasingame followed with a single to center, scoring Cunningham. Gino Cimoli made a nice running catch of Dark's drive to end the inning.

But Musial opened the eighth with his 16th homer, a blast to the rightfield pavilion roof, and the Redbirds had a 4-4 tie.

The Dodgers erupted for four runs in the third, batted out starter Willard Schmidt.

With one out, Junior Gilliam and Reese walked, Duke Snider, in the midst of a long battling slump, pounded a single to right field scoring Gilliam.

Then Hodges rapped a home run into the right center field pavilion to score Reese and Snider ahead.

Jorgensen to Clash With Cadilli in Bout

PORT ARTHUR, Tex., June 22 (P)—Paul Jorgensen of Port Arthur, Texas featherweight champion and seventh-ranked in the world, will meet Gil Cadilli of San Francisco in a 10-round bout here July 16.

The sponsoring Sabine Athletic Club said the bout will be staged at the baseball stadium.

Jorgensen has won 56 bouts, lost 4 and drawn in 1.

Cadilli was ranked No. 7 after a decision over Ike Chestnut in Houston earlier this year. He since has dropped decisions to Chestnut and Davey Moore of Miami and slipped out of the top 10.

See Open Competition For A.A.U. Decathlon

KINGSBURG, Calif., June 22.—(P)—Competition will be wide open in the National A.A.U. decathlon Friday and Saturday with Rafe Johnson's announcement he won't defend his championship.

It was here, in his central California home town, that Johnson set the world record for the 10-event competition with 7,985 points two years ago.

Johnson was favored to repeat his victory of last year at Crawfordsville, Ind. However, a knee ailment has hampered the big UCLA star this spring and doctors advised him not to compete.

Also passing up the event is Milton Campbell, former University of Indiana great who defeated Johnson in the Olympic Games.

Human body's largest joint is the knee joint, which also has to sustain the greatest stresses, according to Encyclopedia Britannica.

Wally Moon hit his 14th home run in the fourth with two out.

Her man W. H. meier replaced Schmidt after the Dodgers' fourth-inning fusillade and was slick in the four and two-thirds innings he toiled, giving up only one hit, a double to Snider.

But Pay More in Salaries

Yanks, Brooks Lead Majors In Net Income, Probers Told

By Whitney Shoemaker

WASHINGTON, June 22 (P)—Major league financial statements filed with a House subcommittee support the old slogan that you get what you pay for.

The New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers paid out more in salaries last year than any other clubs in baseball.

The Yankees, it's not hard to recall, captured the American League pennant and then won the World Series from Brooklyn, National League champs.

Salary figures showed up in profit and loss sheets deposited with the House Antitrust Committee in its investigation of pro sports enterprises.

The subcommittee heard last week from baseball executives. On Monday it plans to question players themselves to get the workmen's opinions on how baseball conducts its affairs.

Fiscal data supplied by baseball officials went into the record as part of the evidence on which the subcommittee will decide whether to recommend legislation to clarify the legal status of baseball, football, basketball and ice hockey. The Supreme Court has exempted baseball from federal antitrust laws but held that football—and boxing—are covered.

American League figures showed the Yanks first in player salaries for 1956 with a total of $680,679. Brooklyn topped the National League with $598,666.

The Dodger entry noted in included pay for Manager Walt Alston, coaches, trainers and clubhouse. There was not footnote for the Yankees. Nor in either case was there a breakdown by players.

The same clubs also led their leagues in officers salaries, listing $143,770 for Yank executives and $111,200 for Dodger bosses.

The two pennant winners had more to show for their outlays than pennants. Figures previously published from the hearings reflected net income after taxes from all operations. A study of the detailed statements showed Brooklyn first among all clubs in net income, before taxes. This figure, from major league operations alone, was $1,496,513 for Brooklyn. Losses in the Dodgers' farm system cut the before-tax net to $1,120,253.

In the American League, the Yankees profited $1,103,911 on their major league activities before taxes. Deducting farm losses, they dropped to $863,491.

New York also finished first in home gate receipts, $2,606,689. Milwaukee bettered Brooklyn at the turnstiles, taking in $2,603,354 to the Dodgers' $1,790,270. The Braves were second in net pretax revenue from major league operations with $1,248,804.

Player salaries corresponded fairly well with the clubs' league standing all down the line. Here's a listing by outlay, with each team's position in the 1956 pennant races in parentheses:

Bertoia and Hoak Bid for 3rd Base Posts in All-Star

NEW YORK, June 22.—(P)—Reno Bertoia of Detroit and Don Hoak of Cincinnati, a couple of so-so third basemen in pre-season accounting, continued today to make strong bids to be in the starting line-ups for the All-Star Game at St. Louis, Tuesday, July 9.

Bertoia, 22-year-old Italian-born former bonus player little used by Detroit until this year, leads the American League third base batting in a close race with New York's Gil McDougald and Baltimore's George Kell. Hoak, meantime, has closed to within about 2,500 votes of Eddie Mathews of Milwaukee, the National League's leader at the position.

New figures released by the office of Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick show Bertoia with 17,028 votes, McDougald with 16,019 and Kell with 15,503.

Mathews has accumulated 23,747 votes in the nationwide balloting to 21,292 for Hoak, who has become one of the Redlegs' key players after miffing trials with Brooklyn and the Chicago Cubs.

The Playful Swimmers

Recent comments about the dangerous playfulness of swimmers in strange or unexplored waters this summer brought a suggestion something should be said about behavior in supervised pools of those lovers of the water sport.

Lifeguards often find young swimmers more responsive than older persons to cautions and direct orders. The latter tend to defy a supervisor and indicate they know more about taking care of themselves than the lifeguard.

This unhappy situation is rather general and so long as there are no drownings or other types of pool accidents such as cracked heads, broken arms or legs, or backs by someone diving on top of another, then the attitude toward a lifeguard is one of toleration rather than support.

Pointing to the hazards of the swimming sport, the Columbia Missourian has this to say about what takes place in their recreation spots. It is applicable to Sedalia:

Have you heard about the games of "chicken" and "wolf"? They're being played nearly every day at Columbia's swimming places supervised by lifeguards. One small child can't swim well. So he stays out of deep water and is extra cautious. His friends tease him about it.

"You're chicken if you don't jump off into the deep water!"

For a time the child pays no attention. But one day he does jump off. If he's lucky, he comes up sputtering and some kind soul helps him back to the edge.

This is one group that draws the attention of the lifeguard, who should be watching the whole area as much as possible.

The other group that causes him minutes of unnecessary work consists of the cuties who like to play "wolf."

Someone with a big lung capacity takes a deep breath, plunges in below the surface, then sticks up one hand and waves it.

Until the lifeguard has caught on, the safest assumption is that someone needs help. Not wanting to take chances he plunges in to see if he's needed.

By this time all the conspirators are gleefully laughing and crying "Wolf! Wolf!"

Nobody wants to put a damper on youthful enthusiasm wherever it is found. But these two tricks have serious implications. The first could result in harm or death and the second wastes the time of the lifeguard.

Management of swimming areas have ample reason to put out of the pool those swimmers who insist on acting this way. And the parents should caution their children about it, telling them why it's dangerous.

Genuine water games are much more fun when you know the players aren't trying to hurt someone or get attention.

Why should a tragedy have to happen before respect is accorded those who teach and preach safety whether in the swimming pool or elsewhere?

Blood Vessel Diseases Growing More Important

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

An interesting fact book on hardening of the arteries and its complications has been sent me by the National Health Education Committee.

Probably most readers of this column understand that hardening of the arteries and arteriosclerosis mean the same thing. Perhaps, however, it is not so clear that this thickening and narrowing of the arteries is responsible for a variety of symptoms. These include "heart attacks," "strokes" and damage to the brain, kidneys and other parts of the body which are supplied by narrowed blood vessels.

Diseases resulting from hardening of the arteries have always been important, but are more so today. If we do not die in youth from diphtheria or typhoid, for example, more of us live longer to the age when arteriosclerosis and other disorders of the later years of life will inevitably afflict us. Thus today, taken as a group, there are more deaths from heart and blood vessel disease than from any other single cause.

Aside from the threat to life of hardening of the arteries, many people become disabled each year from the effects of this process. Some develop angina pectoris; others have heart attacks. Some have strokes and there are other complications as well.

Furthermore, there is a terrific economic loss from blood vessel disease. If a breadwinner is no longer able to work because of some manifestation of arteriosclerosis, he and his family suffer. Also there is lack of production and the considerable cost on those who are still healthy of supporting the victim.

The need to learn more about prevention of arteriosclerosis and the effects which it causes is urgent. Some figures on this are illuminating.

Only $2,351,000 is spent each year in research on arteriosclerosis, high blood pressure and brain disease resulting from blood vessel disorders. This contrasts with 121 million dollars spent annually on agricultural research. At the same time we spend almost 100 million dollars a year for face creams, over 27 million dollars for men's package toiletry sets and vast sums for alcohol and tobacco.

Thus, if we would save untold misery, as well as improve the economic picture, we should speed up research on arteriosclerosis and related disorders. This takes money as well as the devotion of skilled investigators.

New Kingdom Of Animals For Children

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Quite a few parents around the country are being harassed by such small-try questions as:

"Mommie, why can't I have a platypus for a pet? . . . Mommie, what is a Kookaburra bird? . . . Daddy, please buy me a wombat. . . Mommie, when can I go see Kerry Kangaroo?"

A new generation of global-minded children is among us, it seems, with a whole new set of characters to add to the old familiar animal world of Peter Rabbit and Mickey Mouse. This new animal kingdom has been introduced to American moppets by a gentle and highly photogenic blonde who is sort of a one-woman United Nations herself.

She is Nola Luxford, former actress and radio commentator, present fashion show producer and author. Her new book, "Kerry Kangaroo," seems to have fired the imagination of the kindergarten set, who are fascinated by the strange and lovable fauna of the world Down Under.

Miss Luxford, a native of New Zealand, got on the international merry-go-round at the start of World War II, when she was a radio commentator for NBC, and befriended four New Zealand soldiers who arrived in New York on leave. She entertained the boys in her own apartment, and this was the start of the Anzac Club.

The Old Front Porch

A sturdy porch it was back then

When playin' round it were her ten,

And flowers she planted all aroun';

The end of it were trampled down;

The dog beneath it liked to snooze

And many times the hens would choose

To underneath it build their nests

Then afterwards throw out their chests

As cackling loud they would announce

They'd laid an egg up at the house;

Beneath the porch so safe and sound

Those eggs, they knew, could not be found.

But hens just have no sense at all.

For underneath the porch would crawl

Some of the youngsters and bring out

Those eggs the hens were sure about

And put them in the basket, too.

With other eggs so fresh and new,

To take down to the store — well —

Nearly a mile away to sell.

Upon the front porch in her chair

As if she never had a care,

She rocked her baby to and fro

Singing a lullabye soft and low;

Her other children — all still little,

Would sit around the porch and whittle

With Christmas knives — and no mistake

It was an awful mess they'd make —

These were the boys — the girls chose

To sew and make their dolls some clothes.

And then again she'd give to them

Gooseberries she had picked, to stem,

And afterwards in baskets load

To sell to neighbors down the road;

Gooseberry money quickly went

For shirts and dresses or was spent

For sugar, beans, flour and such.

A few cents left — but not too much,

Meant candy and each child would pick

From out the sack a favorite stick.

On Sunday after Sunday School

The neighbor youngsters, as a rule,

Would gather on the porch and sing

As back and forth went the porch swing;

The boys would tease, the girls would squeal

And she would cook the Sunday meal.

Then romance came and one by one

Left home a daughter or a son

Until at last all had departed

And he and she were where they started;

All of their children now were grown

And they sat on the porch alone —

Until came that great sorrowing day

When God had called her mate away;

And left the home so quiet then

Save when the children come again;

The laughter of their children ring

So gaily from the old porch swing;

Alone upon the porch she'll rock

Inside ticks on her little clock

Around no noise save outdoor sounds —

Just silent memory abounds.

The old front porch now shows decay

The years too quickly slipped away

To leave her sitting there alone

Thinking back on joys she's known.

Conservatism Gives Way

Court's Liberal Flavor From Unusual Mixture

By JOSEPH A. DEAR

Of Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—Legal "liberals" now dominate the Supreme Court, thanks to Ike.

That's a political paradox. For the High Court was the uncaptured citadel of conservatism during the years Democrats occupied the White House.

The turn toward liberalism was predicted in this column at the time of Earl Warren's nomination as Chief Justice. His humanistic outlook was suggested by his political background. Other Ike appointees seem to be judicial humanists, too.

Four years ago the distinguished lawyer John Lord O'Brien noted, "In no case has the court liberalized or extended freedoms guaranteed by the First Amendment." On the contrary, he wrote, "the general trend has been in the direction of sustaining, in the interests of national security, new restrictions upon those liberties."

But now the Supreme Court, in a 6-1 decision, has upset the conviction of labor leader John Watkins for contempt of Congress. Watkins, when appearing before the House Un-American Activities Committee in 1954, refused to identify persons he had known as Communists years ago. He said he had not been a card carrying member of the party, but admitted contributing to its support, participating in its activities, and cooperating with its leaders. He said he would identify persons who, in his opinion, still were members.

The basic issue in the Watkins case, and in the more recent case of playwright Arthur Miller, was whether the inquiry of the Un-American Activities Committee violated rights guaranteed by the First Amendment. (Freedom of religion, speech, of the press, and right of petition.)

Chief Justice Warren, who wrote the opinion, held that First Amendment freedoms "cannot be abridged in legislative inquiries." The broad investigative powers of the Congress were affirmed, but these powers are "not unlimited." Investigating Congressmen in the future must demonstrate their inquiry has some legislative purpose behind it. An investigation intended merely to expose or punish is "indefensible."

This decision is a most important affirmation of the individual rights guaranteed by the Constitution. But it is not the only decision of significance that has come from the Court of late.

The Court freed five California Communist leaders and ordered a new trial for five others. (Justice Harlan, an Ike appointee, wrote the decision.) The Court forbade courts martial for civilians accompanying the armed forces overseas. The Court has sharply restricted the use of secret documents of the FBI in trials. The Court held that ex-Secretary of State Acheson wrongfully fired John S. Service, a foreign service officer caught in the toils of the government security program. The Court also has limited the security program to sensitive positions.

These rulings of the High Court must be viewed with distaste by its governmental co-equals, the Congress and the Executive. Of course the decisions will not prevent the prosecution of criminals or legislative investigations.

Consider the case of Service. More than 10 years ago he gave several "secret" State Department documents to Philip Jaffe, editor of the magazine Amerasia. Both editor and magazine were distinctly left-wing. Very left. This improper action was the beginning of Service's troubles. Eventually a Loyalty Review Board found there was reasonable doubt of his loyalty. Acheson, then Secretary of State, thereupon discharged Service. An act of Congress empowers the Secretary to fire any employee if that seems necessary in the interests of the United States. But certain procedural steps were prescribed, and Acheson did not follow them.

The Supreme Court wouldn't stand for that. Presumably, though, Secretary Dulles could exercise the "absolute discretion" the law confers upon him and discharge Service should he seek to resume his career with the foreign service. But Dulles would have to go about the business in the prescribed manner.

The interesting angle is that heretofore the government, more often than not, got the nod from the Supreme Court where procedure alone was in question. This time the Court, by an 8-0 decision, favored the employee.

The outstanding dissenter on the Supreme Court at the moment is Justice Clark, a Truman appointee. He is most often joined by Justice Burton, also a Truman appointee.

The Court today gets its liberal flavor from an unusual mixture: the appointees of Ike and the late FDR.

Odds and Ends
By News Staff

Recently Mrs. Myrtle Vest Johnson, who lives at 1615 Beacon heard a knock at her door and when she answered it there were the children who live in her neighborhood with a birthday gift for her.

The little faces of the children were beaming, not only from their pride in bringing her a gift, but also from the love they have for her. She is their friend and their favorite baby sitter.

Mrs. Johnson opened the gift carefully and expressed her delight at what she found inside. The youngsters were pleased. But this wasn't the first time this scene had taken place at the Johnson home. The children had brought her gifts before on her birthday or for some special day. Once they had given her a mailbox. Another time it was a rose plant for her beautiful garden, for Aunt Myrtle, as the children call her, grows lovely flowers. She is especially proud of her tulip tree and she likes to dig in the dirt and raise flowers. The children like her flowers, too, and never think of trampling down her garden.

There are often little treats for the youngsters such as cookies, and she is always doing nice things for them. They wouldn't think of bothering anything that belongs to Aunt Myrtle.

When she was asked about her patience with the neighborhood children, Mrs. Johnson said: "Why I love them. I couldn't have taught school for 44 years without loving children."

And children, whom she taught and are now grown, still remember her well. Often they go to see her. They remember most that she loves poetry and had them memorizing it. They remember the books she read and that she talked about her flowers.

Now that she no longer teaches, these bits of beauty that are so much of her life are given to the youngsters in her neighborhood and she has helped to make it a lovely place to grow up in. The love Aunt Myrtle has given so abundantly comes back to her in many ways. —H. L.

"I DIDN'T KNOW that the citrus fruit trees bear continuously," said a woman in an office, "there are flowers, growing fruit and ripe fruit on them all the time—it's just continuous."

"I didn't know it either," said someone else in the office and then commented, "you'd think the trees would wear out in a couple of years, wouldn't you?"—H. L.

Silent Husband Talks Blue Streak at Party

"What's the matter with a husband who can be a fascinating talker when he is in a crowd but who barely gives his wife the time of day when they are alone?"

The reader who asks that question goes on to say:

"If I have friends in or go out with several other couples my husband talks so entertainingly about all kinds of subjects, including his work, that he is a real asset to the group."

"During those times I find out all kinds of interesting things about the people he knows, about his work, about his ideas."

"But when we are at home alone he answers my questions with two or three words, never tells me anything about anything. He keeps his nose stuck in a book, behind a newspaper, or if he can't find anything better to do without talking, he watches TV."

"I'm not as dumb as all that. I don't think. I was graduated from the same college he was. I keep up with what is going on in the world. And I would love to just sit and talk once in a while — but no dice. What do you think is wrong?"

Well, maybe he is just refusing himself by reading and meditating.

If his work keeps him talking to people all day he may need to be quiet when he is at home.

Or maybe he is the kind of person who needs more than an audience of one to really shine. Some people are like that. They only make the effort at conversation when they have an audience they want to impress.

Or maybe you haven't learned the art of drawing another person out and making him want to talk. Some wives think if they ask a few flat questions, like "Well, how did everything go at the office today?" they are being as stimulating as possible.

But all that does to a man is make him give the easiest answer possible. "Not much" or "Same old routine."

If you discover this is your trouble, drop the leading questions and try starting some conversations yourself. If your husband fits one of the other two descriptions, you'll have to be content to have a silent partner unless there are others around.

But you can, of course, plan more evenings with others so that the silence won't get too depressing.

Battle Over Civil Rights Procedure

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Two of the most respected Liberals in the Senate, both good personal friends, participated in a bitter backstage battle over civil rights the other day. They were Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon and Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois, both Democrats and both strongly for the civil rights bill.

However, after Senator Morse took the Senate floor to announce that he had changed his mind and now opposed plans to circumvent the Senate Judiciary Committee and debate the civil rights bill immediately, it threw consternation into the ranks of Liberal Senators. They were supporting the Nixon-Knowland Plan to bypass the Senate Judiciary Committee where the civil rights bill has been blocked for months.

Within an hour after Morse's speech, Senator Douglas called a secret meeting of the Liberals in the District of Columbia committee room. Present were: Carroll of Colorado, Church of Idaho, Clark of Pennsylvania, Humphrey of Minnesota, Murray of Montana, Morse and Neuberger of Oregon, Pastore of Rhode Island, together with administrative assistants representing seven other Senators.

Senator Douglas presided. He was white with anger.

"The first thing I want to take up is the conduct of the Senior Senator from Oregon," he said. "If this were a military group he would be court-martialed. He has betrayed our cause. Furthermore, he did it on the Senate floor. He did not take the trouble to come back to this group first and discuss it with his colleagues. We can't court-martial him. I shall not embarrass his colleague from Oregon, Senator Neuberger, but I will call on Senator Clark for advice as to what we should do."

"That's what you think you're going to do," replied Morse, bristling equally with rage. "However, you're going to listen to me and then I'm going to excuse myself. I shan't sit here and listen to myself being abused."

"What I did was not easy. I wasn't lacking in courage. I owed it to my constituents and to you to explain my change. When I was convinced I was wrong I did the only thing possible — I confessed that I was wrong."

"The Senator has said that I did not come back to this group," Morse continued. "But what good would it have done? It would just create a row. I now excuse myself."

Morse then motioned to his administrative assistant and walked out.

An embarrassed silence followed. Morse's Oregon colleague, Neuberger, broke it.

"I think your rebuke was a mistake, Paul," he said to the Senator from Illinois. "Morse has done so many great things. You and he have been associated in so many of them together."

Pastore of Rhode Island agreed.

"We need everyone we can get. There must be no fall-out among the Liberals," he said. "This breach must be healed."

"This breach must be healed."

Surprise, Who Knows?

About all that France's friends can dare hope as they look upon the new government of Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunoury is that the French will again confound the experts.

The predecessor government of Guy Mollet was written off at its inception as unlikely to last more than a few weeks. It endured for 16 months, the longest tenure of any postwar French government.

They are saying the same today of the Bourges government, for it gained power as a minority regime by the skimpiest margin of any of the 22 postwar governments. France's divided legislature, bored, cynical and eager for vacation, seemed anxious only to slap something into shape and be off to the provinces.

But the new premier, youngest since 1883, is a tough Resistance fighter and a politician with a future. As he sets about continuing the policies of his predecessor — for the most part — he may fool millions of weary Frenchmen, and a lot of these besides. America hopes he does.

Looking Backward...

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Donald S. Lamm was elected chairman of the Sedalia district of Missouri organization for economy in public expenditures. Thirty representatives of counties in this district — Saline, Cooper, Morgan, Benton, St. Clair, Henry, Johnson and Pettis — were represented in the meeting held.

St. Mary's hospital grounds at Broadway and Ohio, was made into a city park, electric lights having been installed and convenient benches placed, making it a popular place for rest and recreation.

Newly appointed members of the Sedalia Social Welfare Board met and elected officers, D. E. Kennedy being made chairman, Carl Harter vice chairman, Mrs. Harry Milton secretary and A. L. Pringle treasurer.

Child Airmails Letters; Throws Them Out Window

NEW YORK (AP) — Nine-year-old Janet Capron airmails letters like no one else in the world. She just tosses them out of her fifth-floor Park Avenue apartment. And she gets answers.

It started innocently enough April 24. Home because of a cold, and feeling lonely, Janet penned a couple of letters.

She simply addressed them "Dear Somebody" and tossed them out the window. Within a reasonable time she received answers: one from Rangoon, Burma, and the other from Ft. Sill, Okla.

Janet's first reply came from Ft. Sill. The writer, Lt. Frederick H. Magee, opined that Janet might be surprised by getting a letter from "someone far away." But, after all, Magee wrote, "mysterious things happen in this world."

"I know what it's like not having letters," he wrote. "It can be very lonely. So don't let it get you down. There are many people in this world who are lonely..."

The next letter came from Rangoon and began: "As I was sitting down under a palm tree in front of my house... your letter came blowing into my lap, driven by the first monsoon winds."

The writer, heeding off his inability to write English well, said the letter was written by an uncle named Min Kahin.

The letter deliveries and answers are explainable. When Janet tossed her letters out the window two months ago, a neighbor, David B. Magee, happened by. He figured it might be good fun to send the letters off to his two younger brothers, Frederick, at Ft. Sill, and Christopher, stationed with the United States Information Agency in Burma.

They wrote Janet as the elder brother suggested. Christopher, however, used the name of a fictitious uncle to maintain the illusion that letters airmailed into.

So far, Janet is none the wiser. Thin air do get results.

'Go West, Young Man'

Miss Audrey Salzer and Sister Have Recontinued World Travel

Probably familiar to many Sedalians is the name of the Salzer sisters, Jeanne and Audrey, now living in Slater, Mo. Miss Audrey Salzer was well-known in Sedalia in the late 40's, when she taught physical education at Smith-Cotton for four years. After leaving Sedalia at the end of the 1947-48 school term, she went to Northwestern University to study for a master's degree in physical education.

Since then Sedalians have had little contact with the Salzer sisters. They have been teaching at Tucson, Ariz., and started a world tour about two years ago. Plans for this had to be abandoned, however, because of an illness from an Oriental disease. But that was two years ago. The two sisters have again started out on their journey this spring, making their first stop at Honolulu, Hawaii. The following is an itinerary of the first lap of their approaching worldwide tour, as received by the Daily Democrat-News at Marshall.

If Horace Greeley's "Go West" philosophy came in pills, you'd have to say that we've taken an overdose. The prescription called for the move from Missouri to Arizona to teach school, but we've evidently kept taking the dosage. (You know how you always seem to end up with extra medicine after your cold is all cleared up!) And now we're hoping the effect will last until we get as far West as we can go, that is, back to where we started.

Now, if you aren't so confused that you've started taking your tranquilizer drugs, we invite you to join us for the trip. The shots to keep you medicated will be in the form of irregular doses of our reports on people, places and ideas encountered on our way west around the world.

Itinerary Chosen
Between June 1, when we left Tucson, and August 26, when classes start there again, we will be following an itinerary which includes stop-overs in these West-to-East places, Japan, Hong Kong, Thailand, India, Pakistan, Iraq, Turkey, Greece, Rome, Spain and Portugal. We'll stop only briefly in Hawaii, Japan and Hong Kong, because we visited in these places last time; that means we'll really start sight-seeing in Thailand.

Could we entice you to come along, in your arm chair, before you watch that next TV program? Within 14 hours after leaving the 100-degree heat of arid Arizona, we were greeting lei-laden friends at Honolulu's International airport, where the 76 degrees registered on the thermometer didn't tell the whole story. The high humidity makes it seem hot there too, and about 15 minutes of sunbathing will turn you red, slightly more will send you hurrying to your druggist or doctor, and much more than that will necessitate treatment for severe burns.

Though we felt that we had relatively little time for sightseeing as we wished to be most of our waking moments visiting with good friends we met here two years ago, we did take a car ride around the island of Oahu (Oh-ah hoo) and through the city and suburbs of Honolulu and noted the changes in the Waikiki area.

In the ride around the island we were reminded that the island population is composed of many Japanese, Chinese and Filipinos, as well as Caucasians and Hawaiians; the sugar and pineapple are the principal crops and that each have two-year maturation periods.

That there is a dry side of the island, in the area blocked off by two ranges of mountains. There Marines from Kaneohe bay (where Bill Cox of Marshall was stationed) were practicing with live ammunition.

That islanders take advantage of every opportunity to swim in any likely cove.

That, for us, the territory of Hawaii will always be synonymous with glamorous gorgeous flowers, flame and fuchsia bougainvillea, lavender jacaranda, velvety plumeria (sometimes called the graveyard flower because it's so often placed in cemeteries), masses of night blooming cereus, all blooming at once, and hibiscus, 3,000 varieties, "they" say.

Honolulu Is Growing
Honolulu itself is growing impressively, even fantastically. New roads have been added, others widened. Downtown, new buildings have been built and just this last week lots in the Diamond Head area sold for $2.50 per square foot, and that amounted to $31,000 for one piece of undeveloped property.

Tourist reservations are up 7 per cent to 13 per cent over last year and enrollment in summer school sessions at the University of Hawaii has already exceeded all previous records. An article in a morning Honolulu paper stressed the advantages of inviting tourists to visit Kona and Hawaii to relieve Honolulu congestion, not caused mainly by tourists but by outer island residents, who are moving to the capital city to find work.

Schools Still in Session
Schools here are still in session, probably because of a two-week vacation at Easter. We were interested to learn that many students, especially the younger ones, may attend classes barefoot, and we saw some carrying their shoes in their hands as they trudged home. Although the Pali cliff drive was windy, as usual, it was not at its worst, when its force can turn a car over.

Unchanged, too, was the flag flying over the visible portion of the battleship Arizona, near Ford island in Pearl Harbor, victim of the Japanese attack.

However, in Waikiki, which definitely has an atmosphere all its own even if it is a part of Honolulu, there have been noticeable changes. Innumerable new shops and businesses have been added and many of the older ones have had a face lifting. Also, the amount of the Japanese merchandise being displayed has increased appreciably.

Not to be missed is Henry Kaiser's Hawaiian Village hotel area, which is offering stiff competition to the old established tourist resorts. By refurbishing some wooden dormitory-like cottages with thatch roofs and new interiors and by adding a "long house" seating 1,000 or so (for conventions) he has accented the South Sea island atmosphere and then he breaks the spell with a modernistic gleaming dome, decorated with red "smocking," which must be seen to be believed.

Missed Native Wedding
But we missed the big beachside wedding Monday at 5 p.m. when the groom was attired in a lavalava (bright colored Hawaiian skirt) over bathing trunks and his bride wore a candy striped hulu (like a night gown with a train).

Now, may we make a suggestion? When you come, don't bring a whole new wardrobe, because you'll want to buy one of the many, sometimes bizarre, types of beachwear which varies all the way from almost complete coverage to almost no extra material, but you can be sure it will be made up in a non-shrinking, violet style, floral pattern which would put your eyes out if you didn't have on one that was just as "loud."

"Our stay here was too short." That's the complaint of all of us except armed service personnel. But we all leave, amid leis, alohas, and old and new friends, resolved

Mrs. Floyd Delbert Moore

Charlene Sutherlin Exchanges Vows With Floyd Delbert Moore

At two o'clock Sunday afternoon, June 16, Miss Charlene Sutherlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Sutherlin, 1901 South Harrison, became the bride of Floyd Delbert Moore, St. Louis, son of Mrs. Frank Silver, 1203 South Lamine, at the Cumberland Presbyterian Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Robert Rhodes before a chancel setting of gladioli, white shasta daisies and palms. Two standards of seven branch candelabra entwined with greenery held the lighted tapers.

As the guests were being seated Miss Glenda Rhoads played a medley of wedding music. She also accompanied Miss Carolyn Heck as she sang "I Love You Truly" and "Always". The traditional wedding marches were used.

Miss Arlene Todd and Miss Yvonne Woolery, wearing ballerina length dresses of blue nylon with matching cummerbunds, lighted the candles as Miss Rhoads played "Through the Years". Their wrist corsages were of pink carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length gown of Chantilly lace and tulle over white satin. The fitted bodice was buttoned down the back with satin covered buttons and the scalloped neckline which formed a V was accented with folds of tulle. The long sleeves tapered to points over the hands. The skirt designed with three deep ruffles of tulle was accented with the lace extending from the waist to a deep V in front and back. Her shoulder length veil of illusion was secured to a crown of lace trimmed with sequins and seed pearls and outlined with tiny white roses. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift from the groom. She carried an orchid on a white ribbon.

Her only attendant was Miss Marjorie Sutherlin, Smithton. She wore a ballerina length dress of pink chiffon over taffeta with matching cummerbund and headband. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink carnations.

Jimmie Sutherlin, St. Louis, brother of the bride, served as bestman. Edward Land and Roy Shearin were ushers.

Little Larry Wolfe, cousin of the bride, carried the rings on a white satin heart shaped pillow.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Sutherlin wore a navy voile dress, white accessories and white carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a navy nylon dress complimented with white accessories and white carnation corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church basement. The bride's table, covered with a hand crocheted cloth over pink, was centered with a four tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. Pink roses and fern encircled the cake. Crystal punch bowls were on each end of the table.

Did You Ever Try This?

by Mildred Bowman

For a cool look for your home in rooms you are redecorating this summer, try using black, gold and white, relieved by spring greens and blues.

Many white ground wallpapers are available with touches of gold and black to use for the background for jewel tone accessories. Turquoise is a good accent color in a black, white and gold setting.

Your Wardrobe

by Frances Sagaloff at Sage's

"YOUR WINTER COAT"

Even though we are enjoying "good old summertime" now, it is time to think about your winter coat. My pet peeve, of course, is planning your wardrobe and doing so early. Styles for fall are interesting, wearable and quite versatile. Fabrics are rich in the cloth coat family, yet weatherweight. Colors seem to go from one extreme to another as shiny black is an A-1 color, then it switches to the light shades, such as nude, beige or vicuna, which is a new camel shade. Blues, greens, rose and tweeds both in black and brown are of course, good colors. Perhaps the most neutral shade being shown is taupe. It is not a new color, but one we all like and one that seems to be so right with everything. Styles being offered are clutch types, one button or buttoned most the way down. We do see a sprinkling of fitted coats. Full length coats lead the parade, although many short coats are being shown, and of course, an all time favorite. Remember, it is always wise to select a coat which has good fabric, fine tailoring and not too extreme in style. Man-made furs continue to be important, but that is a story all of its own, so more about that later.

Least Eager TV Stars Are Better Known

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—In the summer dog days a television reporter lives partially on his memories. Everybody—well, nearly everybody—has left town. Every program—well, nearly every program—has gone to film.

The other day a reporter took to remembering his interviews with numerous persons in television over the past year—the dazzling and dull, the delightful and dubious. He remembered:

Everybody, absolutely everybody in television, likes to get his name in the newspaper—except Arthur Godfrey. The most eager are the least known persons; the least eager are the best known persons. But when a well-known person starts to slip, he's as eager for an interview as the least-known fledgling.

There seem to be about a million press agents with television accounts in New York. Some are extremely intelligent. Some are hopelessly incompetent.

Britons, as a nationality, are the most difficult to interview—except Noel Coward. Their reserve can be glacial.

Executives, as a working classification, are the easiest to interview. Their thoughts are well organized. Their greatest failing, when they trust a reporter, is that they like to go "off the record" and forget to come back on the record.

Writers, composers and similar creative minds do not live in ivory towers. Almost invariably they say something interesting. Musicians, the other hand, usually live in a world of their own.

Nearly all beautiful television stars are intelligent. But blue and gray-eyed actresses have a sharper sense of humor than dark-eyed actresses.

Producers are the biggest name-droppers in the business. They pretend never to be mad at anybody.

Directors, on the other hand, like to pretend to be mad at everybody. But when they start to talk they say only nice things.

There's not much point in talking to an actor before noon. He's usually too sleepy—except Robert Young.

In general the people who know most about the workings of television—what is good and what is bad and how the medium works—are the relatively obscure: the technicians and script editors, the assistants and arrangers. They make the stars.

Circle Donates Money For Bible School

The Florence Harris Circle of the Windsor Baptist Church met in the home of Mrs. J. W. Simmons Monday evening with ten members and one visitor, Mrs. Julie Wall, present. For their project they voted to give $10 toward the refreshments for the Daily Vacation Bible School.

Mrs. W. W. Wheeler Jr. presented the lesson "The Fountain of Youth".

Refreshments were served by the hostess during the social hour.

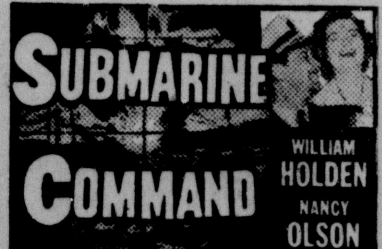

The real name of Moliere, French playwright, was Jean Baptiste Poquelin.

BLUES CHASER—Spencer Tracy takes to the bongo drums to dispel the gloom that has settled over the office party caused by his installation of an electronic "brain," as Katharine Hepburn turns on the charm to keep her office staff on the payroll. The uproarious scene is one of many that enliven Twentieth Century-Fox's CinemaScope spoof on big business, "Desk Set," now at the Fox Theatre. Gig Young and Joan Blondell are co-starring in the film.

North Side Citizens Elect New Officers

The North Side Citizens Association elected the following officers for the year: president, Oscar Lawson; first vice president, Mrs. Mark Powell; second vice president, Dave Richard; third vice president, Ellis Smith; secretary, Mrs. Lucy Ratzberg; assistant secretary, Mrs. Ruth Washington; chaplain, Lawrence Kerr; treasurer, Thelma Jones; sergeant-at-arms, Ira Cason; assistant sergeant-at-arms, Don Gerhardt; executive board members, Mrs. Eva Gearhardt, chairman, Mrs. Brownell Young, Mrs. Marjorie Foster.

Phrase's Origin

Origin of the phrase, "admitted to the bar," stems from the Inns of Court in London. A student became a full-fledged barrister when he finally was allowed to leave his seat in the outer court and present a case at the wooden rail, or bar, behind which the judges sat.

Mrs. Ella Virgil, Mrs. Mabel Bogges, Mrs. Corine Powell, Mrs. Lucy Rotzberg, Mrs. H. D. Jones, Newton Foster and Ira Cason. The organization also voted to have their annual Fourth of July picnic at Hubbard Park. Ellis R. Smith is chairman and Mrs. Eva Gerhardt is co-chairman.

Testifies Many Times

Power Firm Head Becomes
Mixed in Hell's Canyon Feud

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — The Idaho Power Co., in all its 40 years of existence, never heard a protest against the 11 major hydro-electric dams it built . . . not until Hells Canyon.

But since it applied to build three dams, Brownlee, Oxbow and Hells Canyon, in that stretch of the Snake River bordering Idaho and Oregon, its soft-spoken, 57-year-old president, Thomas E. Roach, feels like a Boise-to-Washington commuter.

"It seems I've spent most of my time this past six years in Washington," he said in an interview. He said he hadn't "the remotest idea" how many times he testified before various government agencies.

The Senate is debating a bill to authorize construction of a federal dam in Hells Canyon, the deepest canyon in the continent. The federal dam would flood out Brownlee, Oxbow and Hells Canyon dams. Brownlee Dam is half finished.

Idaho Power got tax amortization certificates entitling it to write off in five years, as depreciation for income tax purposes, a portion of the cost of Brownlee and Oxbow. Public power advocates called this an interest-free loan to Idaho Power.

Last night Roach wired the Office of Defense Mobilization director, Gordon Gray, who granted the certificates, that his company was rejecting the certificates and would go ahead without them so as to "eliminate further beclouding of real issues" in the Hells Canyon debate.

In an interview before he acted to return the certificates, Roach said: "We face an extremely acute power situation in our area, and it will be catastrophic by next summer if anything happens to our plans for Brownlee."

"In all the Pacific Northwest, the area served by Idaho Power Co. is the only one that has never had a power shortage . . . Left to our own devices we have managed by hook or crook to maintain that 'roud boast'."

Until recently, Idaho Power depended on the state's rivers alone for the power to serve its 125,000 widely scattered customers. But two years ago it started buying steam-generated power from the Utah Power and Light Co. as a temporary measure. The contract expires this summer and Utah Power needs that generating capacity.

Roach, a Midwesterner, was in the electric power business in New York, Oregon and Washington before becoming president of Idaho Power in 1948.

Since that time the company has quadrupled its generating capacity from less than 100,000 to 375,000 kilowatts.

And it claims the three Hells Canyon dams would nearly double this output.

Idaho Power Co. was formed in 1916 from the wreckage of five smaller companies which were either in receivership or on the rocks financially.

Today, it serves an area stretching 400 miles from west to east and taking in most of southern Idaho plus a good chunk of eastern Oregon and a few ranches in northern Nevada.

The company's board of directors is made up of 14 southern Idaho and eastern Oregon men, headed by Boise department store magnate C. C. Anderson.
